Facebook Data Policy

When you click Sign UP you automatically agree to all of Facebook's Terms, License permissions and Data Policy.

Facebook is NOT free!

- It costs no money to join and has no annual fees - they don't want your money, but something much more valuable to them: Your Data.
- Why? Facebook is a the world's largest marketing organization, and consumer data is gold to advertisers.

Facebook is NOT free!

In exchange for a free account, they collect and use every bit of data about their members, and their interactions with Facebook "Products".

That data is used to create targeted advertising opportunities, to attract businesses to advertise on Facebook, and whose ads appear in your Newsfeed, for you and all of your FB Friends to see and interact with.

Facebook is NOT free!

Facebook “Products”

- Facebook itself
- Games on Facebook (Farmville, Words with Friends, etc.)
- Chat instant messaging
- Messenger
- Essentially anything you interact with (click on or “Like” on Facebook).

The permissions you give us [by clicking “sign Up”]

We need certain permissions from you to provide our services:

1. Permission to use content you create and share: You own the content you create and share on Facebook, and nothing in these Terms takes away the rights you have to your own content. You are free to share your content with anyone else, wherever you want. To provide our services, though, we need you to give us some legal permissions to use that [your] content.

Creating A Facebook Account Facebook Terms of Membership

Specifically, when you share, post, or upload content that is covered by intellectual property rights (like photos or videos), you grant us a non-exclusive, transferable, sub-licensable, royalty-free, and worldwide license to host, use, distribute, modify, run, copy, publicly perform or display, translate, and create derivative works of your content (consistent with your privacy settings).

This means, for example, that if you share a photo on Facebook, you give us permission to store, copy, and share it with others (consistent with your settings) such as service providers that support our services or other Facebook Products you use.

What kinds of information [data] does Facebook collect?

You can learn how to access and delete information we collect by visiting Facebook Settings.

[Data about] Things you and others do and provide:

- 1. Information and content you provide. We collect the content, communications and other information you provide, including
 - when you sign up for an account,
 - create or share content,
 - message or communicate with others.

This can include information in or about the content you provide, such as the location of a photo or the date a file was created.

Device Information

We collect information from and about the computers, phones, connected TVs and other web-connected devices you use that integrate with our Products, and we combine this information across different devices you use.

For example, we use information collected about your use of our Products on your phone to better personalize the content (including ads) or features you see when you use our Products on another device, such as your laptop or tablet, or to measure whether you took an action in response to an ad we showed you on your phone or on a different device.

Facebook Terms, License and Data Policy

- Facebook is not alone. Very similar Terms, Data Policies and License agreements apply to all Social Media sites, such as Twitter, Instagram, WhatsApp, Messenger, LinkedIn, Snapchat, etc.

- It's a reality of today's world, and the future, that Personal Privacy is largely gone. Even if you avoid all Social Media, your phone is still tracked, cameras are inside and outside nearly every business, etc.
- If you choose to live like a hermit in a cave, perhaps

Understanding Facebook Privacy

There are separate Privacy Settings for the different kinds of interactions you encounter on Facebook:

- Sharing privacy settings
- Facebook Platform Websites privacy settings
- Facebook Platform Apps privacy settings
- Website Instant Personalization privacy settings
- Social Plug-Ins privacy settings

Let's first define each of those interactions.

Understanding Facebook Privacy

SHARING (Posting)

- Depending how you set your sharing privacy, everything you post on your timeline can be seen by anyone with a Facebook account, or only your friends, or selected friends.
- When you post directly on a friend's Timeline, it will be visible to all of your friends on Facebook, not just the one person you shared it with.
- It will also be visible to everyone who is friends with the friend on whose timeline you posted.
- When you post directly on a friends timeline, you have no control of your privacy (intended audience) setting for that post.

PRIVACY

- A Facebook account extends across the Web. The Facebook "Platform" is a tool that lets other websites connect with your Facebook account and view your public information.
- If you've ever seen an option to Login with Facebook on a website, you've seen the Facebook Platform in action.

 Login with Facebook

 Login with Twitter

Understanding Facebook Privacy

PLATFORM APPS

Platform apps let you link your Facebook account to an external website and you'll be able to use your Facebook user name and password to sign in to that site.

Your activity on that site may also appear on your Timeline. For instance, a news site could share the articles you've read.

Understanding Facebook Privacy

INSTANT PERSONALIZATION

Instant personalization allows websites to personalize your experience while signed into Facebook.

- When a site uses instant personalization, it draws from the public information on your Timeline to predict the types of content you'll find interesting.
- For example, on Facebook, if you show that you like Country music, a music streaming website might suggest songs for you, or show you information and website links about Country music or artists your friends listen to.

Understanding Facebook Privacy

SOCIAL PLUG-INS

Social plug-ins let you easily share a website's content on Facebook by clicking or touching a "Share" button in the site.

Social plug-ins can also show you content from the sites that your friends have shared with you.

Adjusting Your Privacy Settings

- For a new Facebook user, modifying privacy settings, the first time, can be a bit confusing. And because Facebook can change privacy options without much notice, it's important to review your privacy settings periodically.
- We'll go through a number of key privacy settings on Facebook, explaining how they work and why they're important.

https://www.youtube.com/watch?time_continue=2&v=dY8AOp9Iklo

Adjusting Your Privacy Settings

It's important to choose the privacy settings with which you are most comfortable. Facebook offers two main ways to control your privacy:

1. You can apply privacy settings that set general rules about who can contact you and view your information.
2. You can control who sees every individual thing you share.

Adjusting Your Privacy Settings

Privacy Shortcuts

The fastest way to change your privacy settings is to use privacy shortcuts.

To access privacy shortcuts, click the Help Center button on the toolbar, then click Privacy Shortcuts.

Adjusting Your Privacy Settings

From here, you can modify:

- who sees your posts
- block certain individuals
- perform a privacy checkup.

• This is where you can control some of the most important privacy settings on Facebook.

• Any changes you make from Privacy Shortcuts will be reflected on the Privacy Settings and Tools page.

• To access the Privacy Settings and Tools page:

• Click the drop-down arrow on the Toolbar, then select Settings.

Adjusting Your Privacy Settings

The audience Selector

In addition to your overall privacy settings, with the audience selector you can control who sees every individual thing you share.

- This allows you to change your default privacy settings and make things more private or less private.
- If you change your mind later, you can go back and change the privacy level for that post at any time.

Adjusting Your Privacy Settings The audience Selector

To use the audience selector:

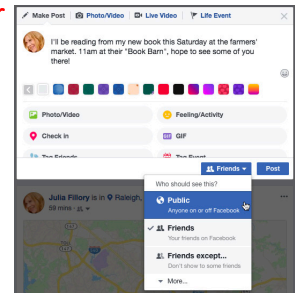

- You'll see the audience selector across different parts of Facebook, including in the Publisher, as show here, and the Timeline to share a status update.

Adjusting Your Privacy Settings The audience Selector

Choose the desired audience. In this example, we'll choose Public.

- Click Post to share with the selected audience.
- Keep in mind that modifying the audience selector will change the default audience setting for future posts. You should always double-check the audience selector before sharing anything on Facebook.

Adjusting Your Privacy Settings Timeline and Tagging Settings

A tag is a way to identify people on Facebook by posting their names which creates a link to their individual Timelines.

Your friends can tag you in photos and in other posts, including their status updates.

Anyone who can see these posts will be able to click the tag and view your Timeline.

The tagged post will also be visible on your Timeline, your News Feed, and your friends' feeds.

Adjusting Your Privacy Settings Timeline and Tagging Settings

While tags make it easy to connect with your friends on Facebook, your friends may occasionally tag you in posts you don't want to share.

One way to prevent yourself from being tagged in potentially embarrassing photos and posts is to manage your tagging settings.

To access these settings, go to the Settings page, then select Timeline and Tagging.

Timeline Permissions

Your Timeline is where people can post links, photos, and more. By default, all friends can post to your Timeline. We recommend leaving this set to Friends so your friends can post to your Timeline.

View Friend's Post Permissions

By default, this option is set to Friends of Friends, meaning that you, your friends, and your friends' friends can all see posts that your friends have shared on your Timeline. Because Friends of Friends almost certainly includes many people you don't know, we recommend changing this setting to Friends or Only Me.
